The bundle was tracted police station, and examined.

It was impossible to tell from the appearance of the body whether it was that of a boy or a girl. Nothing remained save the chest, neck, arm stumps and a portion of the abdomen.

The arms had been cut off about two inches above the cibews. The fresh was in a perfect state of preservation. The remains had, according to a policeman whow asc alled in, been boiled.

It was almost midnight before the police thought it possible that the body might be that of Susie Martin, and the police thought it possible that the body might be that of Susie Martin, and the body might be that of Susie Martin, and the police thought it possible that the body might be that of Susie Martin, and the body might be expected at the description of the girl given at the dime, in the sandle were found several articles of clothing such as a little girl might wear, dress, under skelts, stockings and the like These tallied with the description of the clothing of the missing child and betterives they can not longer the emission of the clothing of the missing child and betterives they can not longer the emission of the clothing of the missing child and betterives they can not longer the emission of the clothing of the missing child and betterives they can not longer the emission of the clothing of the missing child and betterives they can be been any reasonable aboute of covery a critical property.

and Mrs. Mexical went over libers at once and returned with her baby by supper time.

The bodge are convinced that the girl was kidnapped, for it seems hardly possible that a five-year-old omid could have walked the six miles from her home to where she was found. It was about 7 o'whock Sunday hight when the child was found by Patrick Hannon, o' Division street and Vernon avenue, Long Island City. She did not seem tired, as she would have it she had walked such a distance, and spoke about 1a haly and riding in the cars. From file it would appear that Alice was beken to Long Island City, but why she was set free there is a mystory.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mexick helieve that Alice was kidnapped, and the say inday that they think next kin with person who did it, but as they have no conclusive evidence against her they described to give any names at present.
